DEATH FROM ICHTHYOSIS, Geneva Reynolds, the 10-year-old girl who had been ill at her home, at Middletown, Frederick county, Va., for two mouths past with ichthyosis, or "dishakin" disease, died yesterday. Many physicians became interested in the case, and heroic measures were resorted to in an effort to save her life. For the past week the child endured great agony, a quart of scales being taken from her bed daily. On Thurs-day the skin peeled off her entire body for the seventh time in a little more than six weeks. Her hair fell off, and the soles of her feet and palms of her-bands had cracked and fall n off. She ate ravenously almost up to the time of her death. How the girl contracted the ma'aly is a mystery. It is the first case of the kind ever known in Virginia.
